Mr. Rodriguez:

On November 1, 1996, Cincinnati Bell Telephone Company (CBT) submitted revised Cost Allocation Manual (CAM) pages, related to the Federal Communications Commission's (FCC) Report and Order on CC Docket No. 96-128 regarding pay telephone reclassification and compensation. On November 19, 1996, CBT submitted a letter stating that these CAM revisions would not go into effect until the criteria listed in paragraph 131 of the Order On Reconsideration had been met or sixty days had elapsed since the filing, whichever occurred later.

CBT will implement the changes on April 15, 1997, having met the following criteria pursuant to the order:

- (1) CBT's CAM has been filed and will become effective April 15, 1997.
- (2) CBT's Interstate Carrier Common Line (CCL) tariff reflecting a reduction for deregulated payphone costs and reflecting additional multiline Subscriber Line Charge (SLC) revenue, has been filed with new rates effective April 15, 1997.
- (3) CBT's Ohio Intrastate originating CCL rate will mirror the reduced interstate rate, and the tariff reducing the CCL rates for Kentucky has been filed with the PSCK. The new rates will be effective April 15, 1997.
- (4) CBT's payphone assets and related costs have been deregulated and will be transferred to CBT's nonregulated operations during the April 1997 close.
- (5) CBT's Intrastate Payphone Line Tariffs have been filed with the PUCO and PSCK. The PUCO approved these tariffs on March 27, 1997. The PSCK tariffs will be effective April 15, 1997.
- (6) CBT has filed an unbundled feature tariff for Flex-ANI with the FCC.
